Venice school term starting

By VALERIE EVENEDEN of the Press-Record

School started today in Venice for teachers and students will begin their 1979-80 school year with a half-day session tomorrow.

A full day of classes is scheduled Wednesday in the Venice District 3.

School classes are to get under way on schedule despite the fact that negotiation of a new teachers working agreement has not been completed.

Teachers have agreed to continue working while negotiations continue. Both the teachers and administrators are reported still far apart on terms.

In preparation for the school year, the Venice Board of Education hired two teachers, a Title VII Home-School coordinator and three Title VII aides at its meeting Thursday night.

Members also agreed to draft a policy in relation to textbook fees for students which sets specific rules.

For the first time in 40 years, Venice pupils will pay book fees this year as authorized by referendum, held July 21, which repeated issuance of free textbooks in the district.

New staff members hired Thursday are Clarence Hayes, an elementary school teacher, Earlyne Wilson, a teacher in the Title VII program, and Diane Ratliff, who will serve as Title VII Home-School coordinator.

All were hired on a substitute basis until written confirmation is received on the refunding by federal and state agencies of Venice-Lincoln Technical Center.

Duane Rankin, director of Venice-Lincoln, had informed the board earlier the center could expect to operate in the coming 12 months without any substantial cuts in funding, according to state officers.

Supt. of Schools Robert N. Vickers said the remaining honorable dismissal notices sent to staff members in early spring will be rescinded also upon receiving written confirmation of the adult education center's refunding.

Three women assigned as Title VII aides who were hired are Joyce Odom, Joana Tynal and Lillie Mang.

Although no report was given during the board meeting concerning progress of negotiations with the Venice Federation of Teachers, Local 968, it was learned a meeting of the negotiating teams took place Aug. 21 and another session is scheduled Sept. 11.

Also unofficially, it was learned the two sides appear "some distance apart in reaching an agreement."

Venice teachers, however, have agreed to start school while negotiations are continuing.

The policy adopted by the board concerning textbook fees states that payment must be made at the time of registration and before any books are issued.

A provision, however, permits students unable to pay the fee at the start of school to loan books from the classroom or library until an Oct. 1 deadline is reached.

Pupils in kindergarten and special education programs will pay $8 per year; first through eighth grade Hail to the chief!

Quad-Citians numbering an estimated 400 to 600 assembled on the Chain of Rocks Canal bank north of Locks 27 and south of the Tri-City Regional Port at 7:15 a.m. Friday to applaud, listen and wave to President Jimmy Carter.

The occasion was festive and the chief executive of the nation was in buoyant spirits, despite sore hands from "pressing the flesh" during a week-long Mississippi River voyage.

There were a few hints of weariness, but Mr. Carter was generally "up" for the early-morning stops in Alton, the Quad-Cities and St. Louis aboard the Delta Queen. He and his wife Rosalynn and daughter Amy returned to Washington from Lambert Airport aboard the Air Force One jet at mid-day Friday, in time to see new Energy Secretary Duncan sworn in.

Energy was a major topic here and at other points where the giant paddleboat stopped. Pres. Carter urged fuel conservation, plus public support for the production of more fuel and the enactment of a windfall profits tax on oil. Machinists and auto workers picketed and chanted at St. Louis, objecting to his elimination of price controls on crude oil.

Mr. Carter also spoke out on patriotic themes, the beauty of the river and its Midwestern setting, and his love for the people.

Polls indicate only a fourth of the electorate approves of his performance in the Oval Office during the past three years, but the riverfront audiences were enthusiastic. Many predicted he will prove to be strong once paired against specific rivals for the White House in 1980.

Sharing the limelight with Pres. Carter was the venerable Delta Queen, called Steamboat One for the occasion. The vessel's steam calliope entertained the river gatherings with such sprightly numbers as Once in Love with Amy, Sweet Georgia Brown, When the Saints Go Marching In, Georgia on My Mind, Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here, There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight, This is My Country, America the Beautiful, God Bless America, Hey Look Me Over, We Won't Go Home Until Morning, I Want to Be Happy, Dixie, Yankee Doodle, Hello Dolly and an audacious I Ain't Down Yet.

Mr. Carter jogged at midnight across the river dam at Winfield, Mo., while the sternwheeler paused in its southward quest, and then shook hands with a crowd of several hundred there.

After several hours of sleep, he was up again at 4:15 a.m. Friday to speak and shake hands at Alton. Then, it was on to Granite City, with the president being awakened at 6:45 by the calliope's rendition of a World War I song, Oh How I Hate to Get Up in the Morning.

Pres. Carter remained aboard the boat here, talking to the crowd over a loudspeaker system. An effort was made to let some public officials go aboard the vessel inside the main canal lock here, to greet him personally, but the angle for boarding was too extreme and the Delta Queen continued on toward St. Louis.

Captain Fred Martin emitted frequent blasts from the boat's whistle, balloons ascended, fireboats sent out

Convictions upheld, will be appealed

The Seventh Circuit U.S. Court of Appeals has affirmed the trial court convictions of former Madison police officers Ronald Grzywacz, Edward Goclan and Richard Krieschok on racketeering charges.

The court's decision was announced Friday by U.S. Attorney Gerald D. Pines of the U.S. Central Illinois District at Springfield who directed the grand jury investigations and prosecution in the case.

"We will definitely appeal our case to the Supreme Court," Ronald Grzywacz said Sunday. "I have talked to Rich and Ed and they agree that we take this all the way."

"Our attorney, Norman London, says he is certain the court will hear the case, as it is a test case. Police in the past have been charged with extortion, but never racketeering, so it is a test case."

"The fact that it was a two-to-one decision in the court also goes to show there are a lot of things to be considered in this case," Grzywacz told the Press-Record.

The three former officers were convicted on July 5, 1978, on one count of conspiracy to violate the Racketeer

The executive committee of the 60,000-member Illinois Education Association has pledged support for a Salem third grade teacher in her efforts to prevent the last VHF television station in Southern Illinois from being used for "mindless video," according to Mel Smith, IEA president.

Smith said IEA involvement came as the result of "IEA and NEA (National Education Association) commitment to quality television programming."

"IEA member Mary Kell Bowers, founder and chairman of the Citizens for Independent Local Television in Southern Illinois, is challenging a construction permit awarded by the Federal Communications Commission to Southern Illinois Broadcasting Corp.," Smith said.

"The latter corporation is controlled by corporate giant Thomas Mellon Evans, president of the Crane Co. If successful, Evans would merely rebroadcast programs beamed from his Channel 30 in St. Louis, Smith alleged.

"If that happens, the children of Southern Illinois will be subject to more TV trash than ever before."

The IEA head alleged that Channel 30 programming is "rampant with reruns and mindless video."

"Fifteen- and 20-year-old series are augmented by things like the Newlywed Game, and the Dating Game," Smith lamented. "This is hardly the fare we would recommend for children or for educational support."

Conviction

Influenced and Corrupt Organizations statute (RICO), and one count of false declarations before a federal grand jury for their participation in a scheme to solicit and accept bribes from tavern operators in the city of Madison in 1970 through 1974.

Indictments were returned in the case on March 31, 1978, by a federal grand jury at Springfield following long investigations by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Internal Revenue Service. The trial opened June 26, 1978, in U.S. District Court in Alton.

According to Attorney Fines' office, the appeals court in rendering its two to one decision affirming the convictions rejected a claim by the defendants that the RICO statutes which require the existence of an enterprise that affects interstate commerce did not apply to public officers such as the city of Madison Police Department, but only applied to private business enterprises. The court also rejected a defendants' claim that it was in error for the trial court to admit evidence of similar activities of Grzywacz in soliciting bribes in Madison County in connection with members of the Madison County sheriff's office.

The court said in its opinion: "It is appropriate to note that in its ultimate significance, this case is immensely tragic, not only because it involves the corruption of human beings, but because the offenses found by the jury reflect a callous disregard by public servants of their moral and legal responsibilities and a sordid abuse of their public trust."

"Such misconduct by law enforcement officials undermines respect for the legal principles upon which the survival and growth of a free society depends."

"Grzywacz, Goclan and Krieschok have received a fair trial and the judgment is affirmed."

U.S. Circuit Judge Waldo Ackerman who presided over the trial sentenced Grzywacz to a term of 12 years imprisonment and Goclan and Krieschok to seven years each.

Grzywacz later testified for the government in the trial of former Madison County Sheriff John M. Maeras, former chief deputy John M. Cooper, Leland L. Stoller, a Madison, Tenn., fund raiser and Stoller Enterprises, Inc.

All were convicted Feb. 25 this year for bribe activities in Madison County. Cooper was sentenced to 15 years. Stoller to three years and Stoller Enterprises was fined $10,000. Maeras' sentencing has been delayed because of health reasons.

Appeals of those convictions are pending.

Nursing home law tightened

Governor James R. Thompson approved "comprehensive nursing home law reform" Thursday, including a "bill of rights" for the 100,000 individuals living in the facilities, a training program for nurses' aides who administer most of the care, and "stern penalties" for homes which fail to meet proper standards.

The reform measure, Senate Bill 316, was approved by the governor during a ceremony at the State of Illinois Building.

Also approved by Thompson was Senate Bill 309, which permits the state to revoke, suspend or refuse to renew the license of any nursing home if its operator has been employed or had a financial interest in another home which has had its license suspended or revoked.

"Regulation of long-term care facilities in Illinois and the nation has been difficult in the past. The industry has grown rapidly. Changes in the federal Medicaid and Medicare programs and in various approaches to caring for the aged, infirm and disabled have frequently compounded the problem," the governor said.

"The overall quality of care in Illinois nursing homes and sheltered care facilities has improved in the past five years, but much remains to be done. The Nursing Home Care Reform Act of 1979 addresses a variety of issues and remedies to improve conditions further."

Provisions in the new law:

1. Detail an extensive "bill of rights" section including residents' management of their own financial affairs, wearing of their own clothes, retention of the services of their own physician, banning experimental research without the informed, written consent of the resident, access to their own records.

Also, privacy in their medical and personal care program, free exercise of religion, and a ban on physical restraints and confinements as punishment or for the convenience of any facility personnel.

2. Require yearly surprise inspections of all nursing homes by the Department of Public Health.

3. Permit the department to assess fines against deficient facilities of up to $450 a day per resident, plus 15 cents per resident for each day of violation, or a fine of not less than $1,000, whichever is greater.

4. Allow the courts to place deficient homes in receivership, which would allow continued operation with control by a qualified person appointed by the courts.

5. Provide for suits against the facilities by residents whose care is paid for by the government.

6. Provide formal training for nurse aides in long-term care facilities at a one-year cost of between $1.4 million and $3.2 million.

7. Require a contract between each resident and provider to spell out exactly what services are to be delivered.

8. Clearly establish the right of residents to communicate and visit with persons outside the home.

9. Outline rights for storage space for personal belongings.

10. Prevent the Department of Mental Health and the Department on Aging from referring persons to homes once the Department of Public Health has begun proceedings against it.

11. Ban the involuntary transfer or discharge of patients, except in defined emergencies, without a minimum of 21 days' notice.

The Lighter Side

By CATHEY JAMISON
Press-Record Feature Editor

The spirit is willing but the bod is weak

Boy, am I out of shape. I went out to play a little tennis the other day. I'm in trouble.

I stayed on the court a full three minutes before I began to notice that I was huffing and puffing and needing a nice long rest. I believe that I might be just a trifle out of shape.

The first time I noticed that I might have a physical fitness problem occurred when I was about 25. I was bowling at the time. I went into my backswing and the ball went flying behind me. I narrowly missed my teammates.

Being one who is truly afraid of anything requiring strength, I have since stayed away from sports altogether.

The day on the tennis court confirmed what I already knew. I have a great need to get myself together, literally.

half down on the first few laps.

I really am not in good physical condition. I wear out throwing a frisbee. My leg muscles are non-existent and my arms are almost as bad.

Ah, well, what's a mother to do? I work all day and come home to demands for supper and clean laundry. The little time I have left over is used for resting. How can I get any exercise?

The next question was how. Swimming at the "Y"? Maybe.

I could try jogging. I can just see myself bouncing down a country road somewhere, two kids running alongside. Ross would get tired in 30 seconds and Dennis would be yelling "Wait up."

At least with swimming I would have a sitter; the "Y" has a kid watcher for hire. But then, with my luck, I'd Excuses—I always have them. It is an easy thing to tell one's self that there is no time for keeping physically fit.

Nonsense. There is no excuse for falling apart at 31, absolutely none. And I intend to do something about this situation.

If anyone can come up with a form of exercise that requires little time and no running, jumping, swimming or lifting, let me know. I really would like to get the old bod in shape.

Assembly of implementation teams for the second round of goals will begin on Sept. 1, immediately after the strategy statements for the current set of goals is finalized.

Chris LaPeire, 21, of 2612 Delmar Ave., was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center last week with abrasions to both arms and the stomach area and a bump on the head. He incurred the injuries in a motorcycle accident.

"WE SERVICE WHAT WE SELL"

This state's urban, business, energy, shipping needs cited

(The Illinois 2000 Foundation)

It has been a hectic summer for Illinois 2000. We were able to set up eight implementation teams and keep them working throughout the last two months. Each of the teams will have met a minimum of three times, for a total of 26 meetings in ten weeks.

All these teams are now in the process of writing their final strategy statements which will guide the implementation of the goals. In September, a formal presentation of these strategies will be made to the Illinois 2000 Board of Trustees.

Listed below are the strategies which the teams have discussed. These are reported briefly here and actually have much more detail associated with them.

In the final strategy statements developed by the teams, these ideas will be expanded upon, clarified, and combined or eliminated, depending on what combination of factors the teams feel will be most practical for achievement of the goals.

Assembly of implementation teams for the second round of goals will begin on Sept. 1, immediately after the strategy statements for the current set of goals is finalized.

IMPLEMENTATION STRATEGIES FOR THE EIGHT PRIORITY GOALS:

- I. Improve the investment climate.
- A. Develop statutory definition of real and personal property and uniform assessment procedures through improved training of assessors.
- B. State-sponsored "spec" building program — through a revolving loan program to finance interest payments.

II. Business retention and expansion.

A. Establish a comprehensive economic development program with a strong industrial development program having specific long-term goals and functions.

B. Create a technical management pool through local universities to assist the state and local programs in launching coordinated industrial development programs.

C. Expand the Illinois Industrial Development Authority's scope and funding.

D. Reactivate the Governor's Jobs Council.

III. Older urban center economies.

A. Establish a declared state urban policy with requirements for state agency consideration of urban economic development goals in their decisions.

B. Statutory authorization for limited profit urban development corporations with tax breaks to the firms launching urban development projects in housing and industrial-commercial development.

C. Establish an Illinois Urban Resource Fund: a revolving fund for loans or loan guarantees to projects in urban areas focusing on redevelopment of the state's key resources — including urban infrastructure, rail locations, and water.

IV. Preserve prime agricultural land.

A. Support the process to provide a state share for early completion of soil surveys.

B. Stimulate interest at the county level for improved planning and zoning, using a few counties in the state as models.

C. Determine if additional state incentives are required to stimulate county and farmer activity to preserve prime agricultural land.

V. Increase energy supplies and conservation.

A. Increase coal use.

1. Press for re-examination at the state and federal levels of the impact of recent air quality standards on the production and use of Illinois coal.

2. Examine provisions of the surface mine control act concerning standards for agricultural productivity on reclaimed land from surface mining.

3. Establish a working demonstration coal gasification plant in Illinois as soon as possible.

B. Increase use of nuclear energy — options are still being investigated of state.

C. Increase development and use of alternative energy sources — quickly establish a method for determining alternative sources most suitable and economical for Illinois.

D. Expand conservation programs.

1. Generate a workable state plan for energy conservation.

2. Fund to completion state building energy efficiency programs.

3. Use lifecycle cost concepts for new state construction.

4. Provide a data base and ideas to industry through information services and seminars (a continuation of existing programs).

5. Involve the private sector in support of state programs and in-house energy audits, production-energy analyses, including lifecycle costs.

VI. Develop an environmental plan consistent with the needs of the state.

A. Establish a planning process within the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency which examines intermedia effects of pollution control programs as well as identifies major effects of pollution control programs on other state goals (economic growth, energy, agriculture, mining).

B. Develop a "front end" to the regulatory process which includes discussions with Congressional and U.S. Environmental Protection Agency representatives prior to establishment of laws and regulations.

VII. Identify environmental-economic tradeoffs.

A. Expand the concept of economic impact studies to include cost-benefit analysis of environmental programs on the whole state.

B. Consider new theoretical bases for cost-benefit analyses to eliminate weaknesses in current methodologies.

C. Develop a forum of individuals concerned with the environment who can communicate their concerns to the U.S. Congress and U.S. EPA, based on shared perceptions of the economic effects of environmental laws.

VIII. Develop a long-term intermodal transportation plan.

Options discussed by the team include:

A. Undertaken by the Illinois Department of Transportation, expanding on current planning processes.

B. Initiated by the Illinois Transportation Study Commission, with Illinois Department of Transportation follow-up.

C. Establish a non-partisan transportation commission on either a temporary or permanent basis with plan development powers.

D. Continue a low key, incremental approach within the Department of Transportation with some consideration of intermodal questions.

E. Launch a private sector-sponsored planning process with cooperation from the Illinois Department of Transportation.

A new slide presentation dramatizing the Illinois 2000 program will be available at no cost for showing in a firm or community after Sept. 4, "Illinois 2000: A Vision of Its People," a 20-minute slide show with audio, cassette, includes 140 slides, a tape cassette, and copies of the "Illinois 2000 Goals-Feed-back Form."

Equipment needed to show the presentation includes a Kodak autofocus projector and a Wollensak model 2531 synchronizer or equivalent. (This equipment is available from most audio-visual equipment rentals).

To air call-in program with President Carter

National Public Radio announced it will conduct an exclusive, national call-in program in October with President Jimmy Carter. The two-hour live broadcast, "Ask The President," direct from the Oval Office will be heard on NPR member station KWMU Saturday, Oct. 13 from 12 to 2 p.m.

In announcing the broadcast, NPR President Frank Mankiewicz said: "This is only the second time that the President of the United States has agreed to talk informally with people all over the country on national radio. Given our mandate to inform the American audience, we are delighted that President Carter has agreed to talk to the public on National Public Radio."

Persons who wish to talk with the President are requested to send a postcard to "Ask The President," c/o

National Public Radio, P.O. Box 19389, Washington, D.C. 20036. The card should list name, address and telephone and not state the question in advance. Questions will not be pre-screened.

Just prior to the broadcast, National Public Radio will select callers from across the country and people will be able to talk directly with the President when the line becomes available. This method was chosen because of the prohibitive cost of a nationwide toll-free number. No calls will be accepted by National Public Radio or the White House.

Susan Starnberg will anchor the program for NPR and will introduce each caller to the President and to the national radio audience. KWMU-FM 91 is owned and operated by the University of Missouri, St. Louis, providing classical music, fine arts, news and public affairs for the area.

Parenting new words

By GARRY N. MURPHY
SUE Department of English

English nouns and adjectives are often transformed into verbs. The addition of the suffix "ize" is an age-old device and gives such common verbs as "fertilize," "legalize," "realize," "summarize," and "sure enough"—"verbalize."

Unfortunately, the suffix can be hung on almost any word, and some people cannot resist the temptation, with the result that we are subjected to such words as "finalize," "concretize," and "customize."

The next time you see

"customize" in print, try to figure out exactly what it means beyond "tinkering around with."

Here, though, are two rather dismal noun-verb transformations made without benefit of the promiscuous "ize." They both appeared in the same article.

Words are, in newspapering, often simple, direct and important—and can cause trouble. And one of them is "newspapering."

I grudgingly accept the word "parenting" because I know the users of that word want us to regard parenthood as a conscious activity, not just a passive state of being. But "newspapering"? It sounds like something you might do to the bottom of a bird cage.

The second bifurcation (how's that?) occurred in a description of a newspaperer's newspapering: "He messaged Tel Aviv, and this is the reply that was received."

He could have "contacted" or "communicated with" Tel Aviv, or, more specifically, he could have "phoned," "wired" or "written."

Instead, he "messaged!" The awkwardness of the new verb form becomes apparent when we use it in different ways: "How often do you message Tel Aviv?"

"We have to message it frequently. We are always

An ill phrase, a vile phrase.

Mrs. Judy Pickle, 1403 Kirkpatrick Homes, told police Thursday that her family was awakened about 2:40 a.m. when an intruder in the home apparently tripped against a table.

A 15-year-old family member went downstairs to investigate the noise and was pushed hard by someone in the living room and fell into a metal table, cutting his neck. Mrs. Pickle's purse had been ransacked, she said.

City pays EPA penalty

Granite City officials have authorized payment of a $500 penalty assessed against the city last spring by the Illinois Pollution Control Board following a hearing of charges that Granite City had violated wastewater treatment standards.

City Council members decided last week to pay the assessment after the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency wrote the city, noting that the payment had not been made, although the deadline for paying the penalty was April 5.

Charges of wastewater pollution violations were filed against the city as a result of malfunctioning equipment at the secondary sewage treatment plant which prevented plant operators from meeting effluent standards before discharging waters into the Mississippi river.

Alderman Sam Whitmer objected to making the payment, noting that Granite City has been "very cooperative" with EPA monitoring air standards in this vicinity and helping the state agency in enforcement measures in the area.

"Do you mean," Whitmer asked, "that after the cooperation we have given EPA, they have the gall to fine us $500?"

City Attorney Lance Callis explained that the city could have been hit really hard as a result of the problems at the treatment plant because EPA could have penalized the city up to $10,000 for each day of violation, and that 123 days violations were alleged in the complaint. Callis noted that the violations in many instances were proven by the city's own records.

On a motion to authorize the payment, Aldermen Whitmer, Roy Poulos and Earl Baker voted against it. The motion carried 10 to 3.

Necessity of annual Pap tests questioned

New evidence is leading physicians to believe that Pap tests need not be made every year for most women.

According to a report in the current issue of Science, the weekly journal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science (AAAS), this long-held belief may be incorrect.

Science research news writer Jean L. Marx reports that while very few doctors question the validity of the Pap smear in locating cervical cancer, many now feel that for most women an annual examination is

BAC emphasis on lifelong learning; faculty pay debate

Areas of emphasis for administrators at Belleville Area College during the 1979-80 fiscal year will be (1) the evaluation of educational policies with emphasis on lifelong learning, (2) the development of teamwork and a positive college identity, (3) the performance of productivity and organizational studies, (4) a review of student recruitment and retention policies, (5) more and better institutional research, and (6) a review of the college's policy manual.

The areas of emphasis are given in the administrative PLE Plan (Planning for Institutional Excellence), and outline administrative priorities for the year.

One of the areas, teamwork and positive college identity, is included for the second consecutive year.

That area came under fire from faculty member Wayne Pfingsten during last week's BAC board meeting. Pfingsten criticized the board and the administration's sincerity in desiring to improve teamwork in light of what he called a "refusal to bargain in good faith."

Prior to Pfingsten's remarks, a faculty negotiations team member Tom Cochran had taken the board to task for the status of negotiations and for the fact that nothing about negotiations was included on the board agenda.

Cochran noted that the faculty has offered to take the controversy to binding arbitration.

He categorized the faculty as "extremely upset." "There could be very soon," he asserted, "a full-scale blow-up."

BAC Board Chairman Robert Dintelmann, replying to Cochran's statements, said, "Getting this school year started off in a smooth and orderly fashion is our goal as well as yours."

"It is not the prerogative of this board, however, to negotiate at a board meeting. But we are cognizant of the progress of negotiations and will be involved as they continue."

The BAC faculty has reduced its request from a 12 percent increase in salary to 10.9 percent. Salary is the only item being negotiated in the reopening of a three-year contract which had called for a 4.6 percent increase plus cost-of-living increments.

In the present negotiations, which started three weeks ago, faculty members are being offered no increase in salary by the board.

Rights of pregnant employees changed

A new Amendment to Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act will be of interest to the growing number of working women and their families, according to the Illinois State Bar Association.

The amendment deals with employment-related discrimination based on pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions. It reaffirms previous guidelines of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission with minor modifications.

The basic principle of the Act is that women affected by pregnancy and related conditions must be treated the same as other applicants and employees on the basis of the ability or inability to work.

According to the new law, pregnancy-based discrimination is in fact disallowed and employers are now prohibited from:

1. Terminating employment or refusing to hire or promote a woman because she is pregnant.
2. Requiring a mandatory leave for pregnant women, if such is not required for other disabilities.
3. Reducing any degree of reinstatement rights such as credit for previous service, accrued retirement benefits or accumulated seniority, if such rights are granted to employees with non-pregnancy related disabilities.

4. Treating pregnancy and childbirth differently than other causes of disability under fringe benefit plans.
5. Firing or refusing to hire a woman because she has had an abortion; and
6. Excluding from employee health insurance plans, abortions, where the life of the woman would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term or where medical complications arise from an abortion.

The EEOC says that with regard to medical, sick leave or disability benefit plans, there is no requirement for an employer to provide types of benefit plans especially for pregnant workers where none are provided for other employees.

On the other hand, if an employer's health insurance covers 75 percent of an employee's bill for an ulcer, the insurance must now pay 75 percent of the medical bill for an employee's pregnancy.

As of April 29, 1979, employers must have conformed their existing employee benefit plans to the requirements of the amendment.

Veterans medical records to be retained indefinitely

Complete Veterans Administration medical records will be retained indefinitely pending an extensive review of agency standards for coping with the huge volume of paperwork generated by the agency's 172 medical centers while treating millions of hospital and clinic patients each year.

VA chief Max Cleland said the review was prompted by his concern over possible long range effects of exposure to radiation and herbicides during military service.

As a result, Cleland said, he has halted the practice in effect since 1965, of disposing of certain raw medical files 15 years after a veteran's last treatment at a VA medical facility.

Before disposal, the voluminous raw records were digested into a more easily stored and more accessible form and retained for 50 years after the veteran's last contact with VA. No data was lost under the system, he emphasized.

Cleland advised the General Services Administration, which has responsibility for records management, that VA would suspend its congressionally-approved records disposition plan pending a complete review of possible new medical requirements for the information.

"While no essential medical data is lost under our current disposition process," he said, "I feel it is important that we thoroughly study this subject as it relates to our current records, to make absolutely certain that all records are retained as long as there is any possible use for them."

Bumper crops to cause transportation crunch

If predictions of record corn and soybean harvests this fall come true, it could mean some bad news for Illinois farmers.

Walter Wills, an economist in the Southern Illinois University at Carbondale School of Agriculture, says a bumper crop on top of last year's bin-bursting performance could cause a severe transportation crunch, slowing the movement of grain to market.

A large wheat crop already harvested in the Great Plains and increased barge traffic at Alton's Locks and Dam 26 on the Great Lakes can only aggravate the problem, he said.

The government's August crop report has predicted a corn crop of more than 7.1 billion bushels, the largest ever, and 7 percent above earlier predictions for the 1979 harvest. The report predicted a soybean crop of 2.1 billion bushels, 16 percent above last year's record harvest.

"This suggests there will be a heavy demand for transportation during the next year," Wills said. "If there is a fast harvest there will be some areas with a transportation crunch that will necessitate storing Illinois grain on the ground. "This would adversely affect farm prices at harvest."

Strikes at important Great Lakes shipping points in Chicago and Duluth have compounded the potential transportation problems for the coming harvest by holding up grain shipments that should already have been made, Wills said.

There also are large amounts of wheat stored on the ground in the hard red winter wheat areas. Getting that grain to market could draw needed hopper cars away from Illinois, according to Wills.

"Locks and Dam 26 on the Mississippi River at Alton continues to hold up movement of grains to export," said Wills. "This important feature in Illinois grain movement continues to deteriorate while plans for its improvement are stalled in litigation."

"If the U.S. trade balance, currently suffering a deficit, is to improve there must be continued grain and soybean shipments for export. This trade deficit works to the overall disadvantage of the U.S. economy," said Wills.

Riverboat, president charm Quad-Cityans

River after a brief stop inside the main lock during the locking operations for the sternwheel passenger boat.

The president was at the end of a week-long trip on the Mississippi River aboard the steamboat before returning to Washington D.C. Mrs. Carter and daughter Amy made a brief appearance here after the president spoke to the crowd, and the boat then made its way into the lock. Secret Service personnel were assisted with security at the locks by state officers, county deputies and Granite City police during the visit.

IHSA gets ready for 1979 football season

BLOOMINGTON — The sixth Football Playoff Series conducted by the Illinois High School Association (IHSA) promises to be the most interesting in the brief history of the series, which gets under way Friday, September 7 when the first game in the 1979 season are played.

A dramatic increase in the number of conferences, and a correlated decrease in the number of independents, will make the scramble for playoff spots the most frenzied ever. There are 29 more teams participating in this year's series than in 1978. There are nine (9) more conferences (60 last year and 75 this year) than in 1978, while there are 11 less independents (38 last year and 27 this year).

Two conferences from 1978 (Indian Valley and Chicago Catholic League) have split into two conferences. The new conferences formed for 1979 are the Interstate Eight and Quad County in Class 3A; the Chicago Public League 4A; Red North, Chicago Public League 4A; Red South and Gateway East in Class 4A; and the Chicago Public League 5A; Red North and Chicago Public League 5A; Red South in Class 5A.

Five conferences have dropped down in classification. The Big Nine returns to Class 4A from Class 5A. Dropping from Class 4A to 3A are the South Seven, Mississippi Valley and Heartland. The Shark has gone from Class 3A to 2A.

A record 569 teams can be eligible to participate in the season-ending five-class playoff series, which will be conducted for the sixth time beginning with Preliminary Round games Wednesday,

Nov. 7. Quarterfinal Round games will be played Saturday, Nov. 10 and the Semifinal Round games will follow on Saturday, Nov. 17. All five championship games again will be played at Hancock Stadium on the campus of Illinois State University, Normal, the weekend of Nov. 23-24 (Thanksgiving weekend). The title games have been played at ISU since the inception of the IHSA Football Playoff Series in the 1974 season. The Class 1A and 2A title games will be played the afternoon of Friday, Nov. 23, with the Class 3A game to follow that night. The Class 4A battle will be staged the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 24 and the Class 5A game is set for Saturday night. Each of the 542 conference-affiliated schools and 27 independents (schools which do not belong to an eligible conference and which meet the game requirements of the Terms and Conditions of the 1979 series) will decide its own fate and will contribute to the fate of its opponents — on the gridiron during the regular season. Schools have been classified and the host conferences for the Preliminary Round games have been designated by the IHSA. This year there are a record 75 football conferences and they have been assigned to one of the five classes based on average conference enrollment. Independents are classified according to where their enrollment falls within the classification of conferences. Class 1A is the smallest class and Class 5A is the largest. Enrollment figures used in classification of schools are those of the previous school year. A total of 329 schools entered the regular season in the initial year of the playoff series in 1974. In 1975 the number of football schools was up to 534 and the number was 534 in 1976. In 1977 the number reached a then-record of 537. In 1978 there were 540. Assignment of conference and schools into classes this season produced the following breakdown by classes: Class 1A: AVERAGE ENROLLMENT: 0-295; NUMBER OF CONFERENCES: 15; TEAMS: 114; POTENTIAL INDEPENDENTS: 5; TOTAL TEAMS: 119. Class 2A: AVERAGE ENROLLMENT: 296-547; CONFERENCES: 15; CONFERENCE TEAMS: 108; INDEPENDENTS: 11; TOTAL TEAMS: 119. Class 3A: ENROLLMENT: 548-1158; CONFERENCE TEAMS: 14; INDEPENDENTS: 7; TOTAL TEAMS: 101. Class 4A: ENROLLMENT: 1159-2029; CONFERENCE TEAMS: 113; INDEPENDENTS: 4; TOTAL TEAMS: 117. Class 5A: ENROLLMENT: 2030-ABOVE; CONFERENCE TEAMS: 16; INDEPENDENTS: 113; TOTAL TEAMS: 119.

DEPENDENTS: 0; TOTAL TEAMS: 113. The Illinois system was unique to high school football competition when it was introduced five years ago, but since then it has been copied (in whole or in part) by most of the other states which conduct football playoffs. The champion of each conference is guaranteed a berth in the 16-team field for its respective class. In the event of co-champions, each conference selects its own representative. Should the champion of a conference involving IHSA member schools and schools from another state (or states) be a school from another state, then all IHSA member schools in such a conference shall be considered potential eligible independents. To be eligible for the (Continued on Page 11)

You say there was nothing to do this summer?

GRANITE CITY — So you say there wasn't anything to do this summer in the Quad Cities. Phooey!

If you have ever said that about yourself or your family, you are sadly mistaken. For there was plenty to do around here this summer.

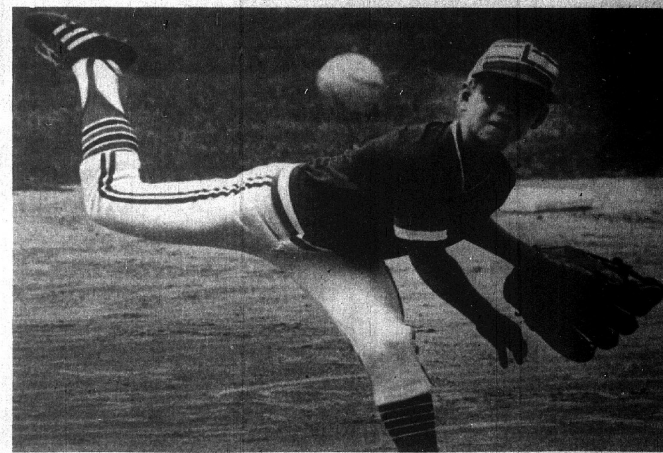

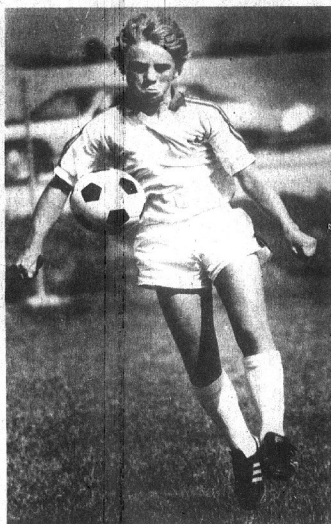

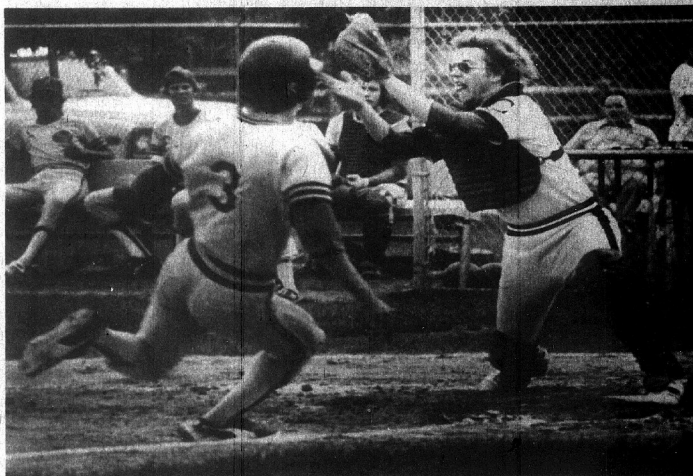

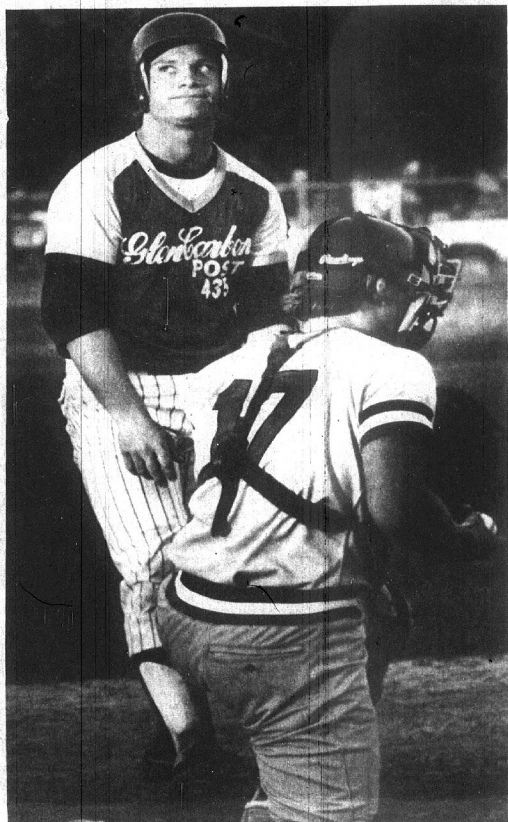

There were there Granite City Park District baseball leagues. The Park District softball leagues. The Madison softball programs. The Venice Little League. There was the American Legion Baseball program for the older guys. And the Illinois Inter-City Baseball League for the guys just a little bit older.

There was the Paddlers Swimming Team. And the Paddlers Diving team. They were for kids from 8 to 17. There were the Park District summer recreational programs for people of all ages. There was swimming at the Wilson Park pool and the Paddlers pool.

There was the usual multitude of programs available at the Tri-Cities Area YMCA. The list goes on and on. But not for long; school is set to start in the not-too-distant future.

Salukis sign new players

CARBONDALE — Six athletes have signed national letters of intent to play women's softball next spring at Southern Illinois University-Carbondale, Saluki coach Kay Brechtelsbauer announced. The group will join Granite Cityan Robin Deterding, who will return as the Salukis' top player next season. She will be a senior. She is a graduate of Granite City High School, South. She also plays on the SIU basketball team. She is the daughter of South basketball coach Don Deterding. Linda Launer, a junior college transfer from Illinois Central College, heads the list. Launer garnered All-American honors last season after leading ICC to the National Junior College Athletic Association Tournament where she had a hefty .400 batting average. During the regular season last year, Launer led Illinois Central in three hitting categories: home runs (3), triples (5) and average (.333). Beth Stevenson, a freshman from Glen Ellyn, Ill., will give the Salukis much improved team speed next season. Her senior season at Glen Ellyn, Stevenson scored 38 bases and bunted safely all but one of 23 times.

Jeff wins again

ST. LOUIS — Jeff Swiatek of Granite City took first place here recently in the annual Four-States Regional Bicycle Motocross (BMX) race at the Bonzi Track.

Jeff won the title in the 9-year old division in the event which featured racers from Missouri, Illinois, Iowa and Michigan. Jeff is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Swiatek of 33 Bermuda Drive in Granite.

Sumner wins shot

EDWARDSVILLE — Jane Sumner, of the women's track and field team at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, finished her first year of competition at SIUE this past weekend with a winning performance at the Ninth Annual Santa Fe Trail Golden Track Meet at Raytown, Mo., July 28.

Sumner won the women's open discus competition with a throw of 148'9.5", a personal second best. She outdistanced her nearest opponent by almost 20 feet. The second place throw by Mary Hyder was 129'10.5". All of Sumner's throws were in the 140-ft. range.

The time of the equipment handout will be from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. All young men interested in playing must have had a physical examination within the past year.

The first practice will be held Wednesday, Aug. 29, according to head coach Gene Gunderson.

Girls' physicals

GRANITE CITY — Physicals examinations for all female athletes at both Granite City High School North and GCHS South will be given Tuesday, Aug. 28 at the South gymnasium at 5 p.m.

IHSA gears for 1979

playoffs a team (those in conferences or independents) must play a minimum of eight games by the conclusion of the ninth weekend of the season (Nov. 3, 1979), and at least one of those games must be against another IHSA member school. Only one game each week may be counted in the point system for "At Large" consideration. Should a school contract to play a "varsity" game against a "varsity" game against a junior varsity of a school in a higher classification, such a classification must be at least three classes higher. Schools assigned to Class 1A must contract to play a "varsity" game against teams in either Class 4A or Class 5A. Schools in Class 2A must contract to play "varsity" games against teams in Class 5A. Any game contracted after the third weekend of the football season shall not count toward a team's record for "At Large" consideration in the playoff series. Notification of such added games must be filed with the Executive Secretary prior to the conclusion of the third weekend of the football season.

"At Large" berths can be earned in all the class except Class 5A. Eligible independents with a winning percentage of 80 or better will be given first consideration for such berths in their respective class. Conference co-champions not selected as the official representative by their conference and conference runner-up, each having a winning percentage of 80 or better, will be given second consideration, as a group, for remaining "At Large" berths in their respective class. In Classes 1A, 2A and 4A, there will be one (1) spot open for "At Large" consideration. In Class 3A there will be two (2) spots open for "At Large" consideration. There are no "At Large" berths available in Class 5A.

Conferences are assigned classification based on average conference enrollment. The relationship of that enrollment to the enrollment of the other conferences eligible to send their champion into the playoff series, as well as the total number of conferences established for the school year, determines assignment of conferences. In addition, the distribution of independents (again based on enrollment of those schools) is a factor in the classification of conferences and schools. Assignments of conferences and/or independents may vary from one year to the next based upon the total number of conferences formed for a given school year.

Selection of the eight host conferences in each of the five classes also established the framework for the pairings in each class, which are scheduled to be officially announced the weekend of Nov. 3-4 and which will be made on the traditional IHSA geographic pattern. The champions in each of the eight designated conferences per class will host the Preliminary Round games, Wednesday, Nov. 7. Those games will start between 1:30 and 7:30 p.m., based on kickoff time set by the host school. Quarterfinal Round games will be played at 1:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 10. Semifinal Round games are set for 1:30 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 17. The two survivors in each class will advance to the championship games on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 23-24 (the weekend following Thanksgiving). Kickoff schedule for the title contests will be: Session No. 1: Class 1A game at 12:10 p.m., Nov. 23 and Class 2A game at approximately 2:30 p.m., Nov. 23; Session No. 2: Class 3A game at 7:40 p.m., Nov. 23; Session No. 3 - Class 4A game at 1:10 p.m., Nov. 24; Session No. 4: Class 5A game at 7:10 p.m., Nov. 24.

Carter announces 10 millionth rider

President Jimmy Carter announced Friday that William F. Bund, 59, Alton, had been selected to represent the 10 millionth rider to the top of the world-famous Gateway Arch.

The president publicly acknowledged Bund, and shook his hand before a large crowd gathered at the base of the Arch to greet the presidential family as it completed its trip down the Mississippi on the Delta Queen.

Bund, who is retired from the Navy, got to shake hands with the President twice. He rose early Friday morning—about 4:30 to see the president near Alton—and then decided to take a chance on being the 10 millionth rider. Word that the 10 million mark was about to be reached had been circulated in the news.

The symbolic ride was greeted by a committee including Congressman Richard Gephardt, Jerry L. Schober, superintendent of the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, Bi-State Development Agency Commissioners Ora Lee Malone, Francis Guelker and Roy J. May, and Bi-State Executive Director Charles G. Houghton.

Aside from receiving commemorative plaques and shaking the president's hand, Bund will receive a gala weekend in St. Louis for himself and his wife. He commented that his wife Betty "will really be disappointed that she did not come along" to see the president.

Bund, who received a lifetime pass to the Gateway Arch, admits to being a real fan. "I've probably taken the trip about six times," Bund says he brings his grandchildren to the Arch, and always brings his out-of-town guests.

Bi-State's involvement in the Arch began in 1962. At that time, there were no funds to allow public access to the top, so Bi-State issued $3.3 million in revenue bonds to construct the transporter system.

Revenue from the transporter system has allowed Bi-State to provide continuing financial support to the Arch.

Bi-State has contributed funds for capital improvements, including $50,000 for the Museum of Westward Expansion located beneath the Arch, $125,000 for overhauling emergency generators, and $245,000 for the heating and ventilating system.

Since the tram system opened in 1967, $8.2 million has been collected in revenue. An average of 2,200 persons a day takes the trip to the top of the Arch.

The Gateway Arch serves as an economic catalyst to the riverfront, drawing tourists from all over the world. This fourth most-visited tourist attraction remains one of the least expensive, with tickets on the tram $1 for adults and 50 cents for children.

Bid opportunity fair on Sept. 5

The St. Louis Business Opportunity Fair—planned as a regional event—has gone international. Related Industries, Inc., has taken a booth at the Sept. 5 event.

The company will seek to become manufacturers' representative abroad for area businesses. The French marketing service will be one of 59 agencies and organizations represented at the all-day Business Opportunity Fair at Stouffer's Riverfront Towers. Sponsors are the Regional Commerce and Growth Association and the Federal Executive Board. Area business executives will be able to obtain information, establish contacts for future sales and review bidding opportunities with purchasing experts from state and federal governments and from large companies.

In addition, 14 seminars on various subjects of interest to small and medium-sized businesses will be offered. Luther H. Hodges Jr., under secretary of commerce, will be the luncheon speaker. The registration fee of $25 will include lunch.

Arrests result from 2 separate incidents

Danny E. Caughron, 21, of 2871 Madison Ave., and Charles F. Valle, 25, of Edwardsville, formerly of Granite City, were charged Thursday in connection with two incidents occurring the previous night at the Kirkpatrick Homes and in Lincoln Place.

Caughron was charged on two counts of aggravated assault. He appeared before a judge at 4:20 p.m. Thursday and pleaded innocent.

COORDINATOR FOR SIUE CENTER NAMED

Appointment of Stephen Sperotto as University Center program department coordinator at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville has been announced by Lyle W. Ward, assistant director of the university center.

Sperotto's duties include serving as fiscal officer for the University Center Board (UCB), advising that board, advising three UCB program committees, and assisting with promotion programs. Sperotto, 26, originally from Lombard, Ill., previously was assistant program director for the Illinois Union Board at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana. He graduated from the U. of I. with a bachelor's degree in urban and regional planning.

Bond was set at $8,000 and a mittimus was issued. He was transferred later to Madison County Jail by sheriff's deputies.

Valle was charged with assault and battery. He also pleaded innocent and bond was set at $3,000. He was taken to Madison County Jail on mittimus.

The charges stemmed from two incidents, one outside Ernie and Annie's Tavern, 835 Niederhagen Ave., at 11:35 p.m. Wednesday, when Caughron and Valle were identified as the two men who alighted from a vehicle and one of the men allegedly fired several shots at a motorcyclist.

Has surgery

Sarah Mason, 2243 Cleveland Blvd., daughter of Mrs. Metella Mason, is recovering after surgery to her left hand.

Miss Mason suffered third degree burns when hot cooking oil ignited and spilled on her in her home on Oct. 24, 1978.

She underwent surgery at St. Elizabeth Medical Center on Oct. 25 and skin graft surgery on Nov. 1. Miss Mason will be a freshman at Granite City High School South.

STOLEN AUTO

A 1969 black over red two door Ford parked behind Arky's tavern, 16th street and Madison avenue was reported stolen by the owner Esther Gilliland, 1934 Rhodes Street. The theft occurred between 5 p.m. Saturday and 3 a.m. Sunday. The license number was VM 1759 and the motor number was 9A30720140.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS

By RUSS WALKER

While digging rocks with which to build a stone shack, George Harrison discovered gold in South Africa in 1886. Much of the world's present supply of gold was later mined in this area but Harrison sold his claim for about $50.

Jewelry made of gold retains its beauty and its luster indefinitely. Rings, pins, chains, earrings... we have many lovely pieces.

New plant owner is a pioneer lead processor

Taracorp, Inc., Atlanta-based producer of recycled lead and lead products, has acquired from NL Industries, Inc., three related business and assets. The transaction included the fully-integrated Midwest lead plants and the processing and fabricating complex in Granite City, and battery processing plants at McCook, Ill., and St. Louis Park, Minn.

The purchase price was not disclosed.

In announcing the acquisition, Louis J. Taratoot, president and chief executive of Taracorp, Inc., said Friday that no major personnel or management changes are contemplated in its new Midwest Region.

James M. Taratoot, corporate executive vice-president of Taracorp, will serve as general manager of the company's Southern Region, which includes plants of the Seitzinger and Evans Metals Divisions of Atlanta and the Imaco Division in Winston-Salem, N.C.

Taracorp, Inc., which was founded as Seitzinger's, Inc., in 1984, is a pioneer lead processor in Georgia.

The scope of the company's operations has broadened considerably in recent years.

With the newly-acquired facilities, it will now offer a full line of lead products including battery lead, lead shot, sheet lead, lead wool, wire and cast solder, lead extrusions, powered lead and fluxes.

As a final comment, L. J. Taratoot remarked that "the recent Metals Division divestitures of NL

Industries, Inc., to various companies, including ours, should result in stimulating industry competition.

"We welcome this challenge, which should prove rewarding for our customers, suppliers and employees."

GENERAL CONTRACTORS HOME IMPROVEMENTS

Madison County, through the Community Development Department, is involved in numerous home rehabilitation grant and loan programs on a county-wide basis. As this is the fifth year of a six year program, and there will be an increasing dollar expenditure for home rehabilitation activities, it is necessary that we develop a list of reputable contractors who are willing to cooperate with us on these projects. Requirements for addition to the list include insurability and a proven capability in home improvements.

The Qualified General Contractors list will serve as a mailing list and enable the various programs to send invitations to Bid to the contractors of their choice.

If you are interested or need additional information, please contact Rhonda Schwalb, Madison County Community Development, 692-4387 or 692-4386.

There are several exceptions to the general operating hours. Due to registration requirements, the John S. Rendleman Building will remain open until 8 p.m. on Sept. 17, 18 and 19.

The University Center recreation area will remain open on Friday evenings until 9:45. Entrance is by the south door only.

The Communications building theater will be open until 11 p.m. on Sept. 4 and 5 for theater rehearsals.

In addition, Textbook Services will be open Saturday, Sept. 1 from 7 a.m. until noon.

During hours when buildings are closed, refrigeration and interior lighting will be maintained at minimum levels normally associated with building shutdown, Johnson said. The only exceptions will be in those areas where activities have been scheduled.

Reduced hours of roadway and parking lot lighting will also be implemented.

Regular building hours and normal building operations will resume at 7 a.m. Monday, Sept. 24, when fall quarter classes begin.
